Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., of Richmond, Va., sentenced to death for the murder of his wife in July last, has been removed from the city jail to the detention cell in the State penitentiary, where he will remain until he is put to death in the electric chair. He is under close guard. The execution will take place Nov. 24.

Paducah voted against the commission form of government by 1692 to 892. Thos. N. Hazelp, formerly a young lawyer of this city, was elected mayor over Joe Patter, Democrat, by 160 votes. The Democrats have a bare majority in the Council, which elects most of the subordinate officers. The mayor appoints the police force and controls several of the best places.

There was a striking decrease in the production of tobacco in the United States this year, amounting to 196,000,000 pounds less than last year's crop. Kentucky alone the loss was 111,000,000 pounds, in Virginia and North Carolina it was 25,000,000 pounds each, in Pennsylvania and Wisconsin the crop was greater than last year. The average yield per acre for the entire country, 885.2 pounds was greater than during any time in the first ten years.

Dread of an Operation.

N. Manchester, Ind.—Mrs. Eva Bashore, of this place says, "I suffered female misery of every description. Two doctors attended me and advised an operation. I lost weight until I weighed only 90 pounds. I dreaded an operation, and, instead, began to take Cardui. In a short time, I gained 25 pounds, and feel as well as I ever did. Cardui, I am sure, saved my life." Cardui is to day used in thousands of homes, where it relieves pain and brings back strength and ambition. It is a woman's medicine for women's ailments, and you are urged to try it for your troubles. Ask your druggist. He will tell you about Cardui.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks 1912
Almanac.

Before the great Drouth of 1901, the Hicks Almanac gave timely warning. For over two years prior to 1911, the Hicks Almanac again sounded a warning of drouth danger. And so for forty years this same friend of all the people has steadfastly refused the offers of speculators and continued to warn the public of the coming dangers of storm and weather. As they should have done, the people have nobly stood by Professor Hicks, their faithful public servant, who has grown old in their service. Send only one dollar to WORD AND WORKS PUBLISHING COMPANY, 3401 Franklin Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri, and get his Magazine and Almanac both for one year. The Almanac alone, a fine book of 150 pages, is only 35c. by mail. Let everybody respond and receive the warnings of our National Seer for the coming year.

Cincinnati, Nov. 8.—Despite the announcement that George B. Cox had retired from the local political arena and that President Wm. H. Taft put his sign of approval upon the local republican municipal ticket, Henry T. Hunt, democratic nominee for mayor of Cincinnati, was elected by a majority estimated between 5,000 and 6,000. Early returns also indicate that Hunt has exercised strength enough to carry his entire ticket to victory with him.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 8.—Cleveland, which two years ago went republican, electing Herman C. Baehr mayor over the late Tom D. Johnson, returned to the democratic fold, electing Newton D. Baker, Johnson's political heir, mayor over Frank G. Hogen, republican, by about 18,000 majority.

The entire democratic city ticket was elected with the exception of five councilmen.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 7.—The indications at 8 o'clock are that George J. Karb, democrat, has been elected mayor by a plurality of about 4,000 over Marshall, republican, and Eby, socialist.

These reasons are COMFORT and DURABILITY. Consider them fairly—you can't get away from them—they must appeal to you personally because they are for your good.

Who Was There That You Knew?

The shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there a father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of that long-ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

They were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $50,000; they were buried in the War Department for 70 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked down at a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan, tried to buy the collection for $100,000, but it was sold to the Review of Reviews Company. The entire collection has been printed into 12 great volumes and is placed within your reach for less than the value of one of the photographs. It is the most accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—its camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

Little Polly's Call

By Carl Jenkins

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press)

After Mr. Stephen Courtland and Miss Lisle Cranston had fallen in love with each other, he assured her many times during their year of courtship that he preferred a wife with a temper of her own, instead of a meek-as-Moses sort of woman. And many times, with her hand in his, the to-be bride declared that she preferred an aggressive husband to a henpeck—one who would state his opinions and stick to them.

Married life went off happily for six months. There was no occasion for a display of temper or aggressiveness. What the husband liked or thought the wife liked and thought, and vice versa.

Then came the fatal day. Stephen returned home from the office one evening with a cloud on his brow, and he put his young wife aside to explain:

"Yes, it's that wretched old clock! It is off time. For two mornings now I have been ten minutes late in reaching the office, and this morning the manager spoke to me about it."

"Why, that clock is one of our wedding presents," replied the wife.

"Yes, it came from your cousin Dick. He was after a cheap clock, and he got it. Only six months, and here it is wobbling like a loose wheel on a wagon."

"But I'm sure Dick paid a good price for it."

"Then he was an easy mark."

"Stephen, don't talk that way. The clock is new and perhaps it needs oiling."

"I tell you the clock is a cheap skate!"

"And I say it's a fine timepiece!"

"Lisle, you are talking to your husband!"

"And you are talking to your wife!"

The first family difference was on. Nothing whatever ailed the clock. The trouble had been with the street car. It had been blocked both mornings at a crossing, and the husband, reading his paper, had failed to take notice of the passage of time. There stood the timepiece on the mantel, ticking away with merry sound, and a jeweler would have patted it on the back for its reliability. And there stood husband and wife, she having a red spot on either cheek to show that her temper was up—that temper that he admired—and he with his jaw set and a determined look on his face.

"Very well!" he said at last, as he turned away.

"Do you mean the clock?" she asked.

"No, I don't! I mean that there will be no need of our addressing each other in the future. We will not create a scandal by separating, but until you can learn to control your temper you need not speak to me."

"And how about your bossy way? Do you think I married you to go about eating huckle pie?"

The evening meal was ready, and both sat down to it. The young wife was doing her own housework, and doing it well. In ten minutes the husband was ready to acknowledge that the clock was all right, and Dick was all right, and the wife was ready to admit that the clock might be even a quarter of an hour off time, and that her cousin Dick was no clock buyer, but there was an agreement not to speak.

When the table had been cleared the wife sat down to her piano—a present from mother—and Stephen smoked a cigar and read the evening paper. He wanted to say that the tone of the piano was punk, and she wanted to say that his cigars were certainly two for five, but how can a husband and wife speak after they have agreed not to? They can't even pay heed to the row in the flat above, the fire engines galloping by, or the rumble of thunder shaking the house.

Stephen got off next morning in good time, but he departed without even a nod. No nod for him. When he came home he entered his house like a stranger. He found his wife humming the air to a gay song, and he began to whistle the air of another to match. Another silent meal! At its conclusion he took pencil and pad from his pocket and wrote:

"I should like pork chops for breakfast."

The wife read the message passed to her, and then took the pencil and wrote:

"I prefer sausages."

That settled it. She was still obdurate, and Stephen's jaw was set again. He felt that he had made an advance toward a reconciliation and had been turned down, and he lay back on his dignity.

There was neither sausages nor pork chops for breakfast. That day was a long and lonesome one. The husband came home prepared to say that he had had a great offer to go on a north pole discovery expedition and should accept it, and the wife had resolved to remark, if opportunity offered, that marriage had proven a failure and she would go back to school teaching. They looked at each other as Stephen entered, and both hardened their hearts. There was to be no speaking. In place of it, out came pad and pencil and the husband wrote:

"I have joined a north pole expedition!"

It was read and the answer returned:

"I have decided to go to South Africa as a missionary!"

Then he wrote:

"I shall be gone three years!"

Then she answered:

"And I shall be gone four!"

The husband took a couple of minutes to consider and to work up a sad expression, and then wrote:

"The chances are ninety-nine in a hundred that I shall be frozen to death within six months!"

The wife was about to write in reply that she expected to be carried off by African fever within fifteen minutes of landing when there came a ring and the door was opened to Polly, a girl of six, living on the floor below. She had been in the flat several times before, and felt quite at home. She had the dignity of a woman. Without a word of salutation she sat down and looked from husband to wife. Both had smiled on her entrance.

"Yes, it's that wretched old clock!"

"Do you know why I am here?" she asked after awhile.

Two heads gave a negative shake.

"Cause I think it's so funny."

"What's that, dear?" was asked.

"About you two getting married."

How did you do it?"

"Why, Polly, what can you mean?"

"Ma says one of you is deaf and dumb and the other an idiot, and how did you let each other know you wanted to get married?"

Five minutes later when Polly had departed, not much wiser for her call, husband and wife found themselves standing up and looking at each other.

"The clock, Stephen—the clock—"

"Darn the clock!" replied Stephen, as he opened his arms.

GREY AND GRAY DISTINCT.

Lexicographers to whom the spelling of the word "gray" or "grey" is a point of endless discussion might profit by reading the advertisement of a Sixth avenue store which offers grey crepe meteor at special prices and gray chevrot.

"Using the two differing spellings on the same page was not a mistake nor an attempt to reconcile the two opposing factions," said the manager. "In this store we always use 'grey' for light tints and 'gray' for dark."

A CHASER.

"But, John, how did you get rid of the creditors?"

"I lit one of your cigars."—Fletcher Blasser.

Garnett painted, presumably to be placed in the Circuit Court room. Judge Grace was circuit judge from 1868 to 1894, when he was elected judge of the Court of Appeals and died suddenly two or three years later.

Judge Landes was Judge Grace's successor on the Court of Appeals bench by appointment and was recognized as one of the ablest lawyers who ever practiced at the Hopkinsville bar.

Mr. Garnett was for 18 years commonwealth's attorney of this district and still lives at his home in Cadiz in poor health.

The movement to honor these distinguished lawyers and faithful public servants, will meet with the hearty approval of all the people.

TO MEET THE VILLAGERS

H. H. S. Will Play Old Time Rivals Today.

The High School boys will meet the Clarksville football team on the gridiron this afternoon unless there should be bad weather. Hopkinsville won from this team in 1909 but was defeated in 1910 by a close score. The teams are expected to be closely matched again this year and a fine game is in prospect. So far this season Clarksville has won two and lost one game and Hopkinsville has won three and lost only one, and that one to a team out of its class. The Clarksville boys are a little heavier than the Hopkinsville boys, but the locals are better coached and faster than the visitors, though the team will be weakened by the absence of Armstrong and Redd.

A Turkey For Every Table.

The prospect of cheap turkeys in local market for Thanksgiving is pleasing. It is a novelty, as well. For several years the autumn demand for turkeys has been so great that dealers have been unable with some show of reasonableness to put up the prices to the point of making the bird a real luxury. Now it appears that so many farmers have gone in for turkeys raising that there is a big supply. Thanksgiving this year will perhaps seem like good old times, with no gloomy dread of the poulterer's showing the feat.

PLAY FOR TAFT

James K. Hackett and Company in "Bishop Candlesticks."

Louisville, Nov. 8.—Following the banquet given to President Taft by the Press Club of Louisville at the Seelbach Hotel tonight, James K. Hackett, who is playing here in "The Grain of Dust," at a local theatre, and his company rushed over to the hotel and on the stage of the banquet hall gave, in President Taft's honor, the little one-act play, "The Bishop Candlesticks."

The stage at the hotel was small, but a special set of scenery had been built during the day and the production was complete in every way.

Mr. Hackett was among the invited guests of honor to the President's banquet, but was unable to attend until after the performance of "The Grain of Dust." It was the first time that a special performance of a play had ever been given for a President of the United States. The performance was a notable one, the Governors of seven States being among the distinguished guests present.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I had a tumor. I also had a day of the wonderful cure made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. NATHAN B. GREATER, 61 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Dr. Edwards' New Auto.

The much talked of car, ordered by Dr. Edwards last summer, has at last arrived. It is a seven-passenger machine, and is equipped with every convenience and luxury known to automobile artists.

Dr. Edwards owned the first touring car between Louisville and Nashville, which was bought less than three years ago, and now we have more than one hundred in this county.

The doctor says that within the next year he and his wife hope to have the pleasure of taking every old woman in the city, who has never ridden in an automobile, for a long, delightful spin in the country.

The automobile mania in Hopkinsville, has been due to the generosity of the motorists in sharing their machines with their friends.

MARYLAND WRONG

Goes Republican For Governor by 2500.

Baltimore, Nov. 8.—With complete unofficial returns from Baltimore and practically all parts of the State heard from, the election of Phillips Lee Goldsborough, Republican candidate for Governor, over State Senator Arthur Pue Gorman, Democrat, has been established. Mr. Goldsborough's plurality, it is estimated, will be between 2,500 and 3,000. Both houses of the Legislature will be Democratic by safe majorities.

Edgar Allan Poe and Emerson C. Harrington, Democratic nominees, respectively, for Attorney General and Controller, were elected. Judge Henry Stockbridge, Republican was re-elected Judge of the State Court of Appeals. The constitutional amendment disfranchising the negro was decisively defeated.

Mr. Goldsborough is the second Republican Governor of this State since the Civil War, Lloyd Lowndes, in 1895, being the first.

BLANKENBURG'S TRIUMPH.

Philadelphia Gang Routed by Reform Candidate for Mayor.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—A revived computation of the unofficial returns of yesterday's election makes no change in the plurality of 4,364 given the fusion candidate for mayor, Rudolph Blankenburg. It will require the official count to determine the winner of the contest for city solicitor, between James Alcorn republican, and Michael J. Ryan, candidate of the keystone and democratic parties.

Revised figures show the election of Thomas B. Cunningham, republican candidate for quarter session clerk, by 6,000. The fight made by Blankenburg was remarkable. Facing a normal republican majority of between 75,000 and 100,000 and a candidate backed by United States Senator Penrose.

Howard Pyle, a noted American artist and author, died in Florence.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

Will Be Held in Hopkinsville December 1 And 2.

The Second Congressional District Teachers' Association will be held in this city on December 1st and 2nd. This Association meets annually on Friday and Saturday after Thanksgiving Day. Two years ago it met in Morganfield and a year ago in the city of Henderson. Last year this county sent a delegation of teachers, trustees and pupils to Henderson for the purpose of bringing the Association to Hopkinsville this time if possible. The delegation, under the leadership of Prof. H. G. Brownell, Mr. H. A. Robinson, and Miss Jennie West, accomplished its purpose. In doing so the appreciation and hospitality of the good people of Hopkinsville were pledged to the Association unqualifiedly. About two or three hundred members will be in attendance at this meeting, and every person in the city is earnestly urged to contribute something to the success of the meeting. You are not asked for money, but give a kind word, a kind look, and your presence at the sessions as far as possible. The leading teachers and superintendents of this Congressional district, and several of the most noted educators of the State will be here. The teachers and superintendents of the Third Congressional District have been invited to meet with us, and several are likely to attend.

Prof. H. G. Brownell, of Bethel Female College, is president of the Association this year and Miss Jennie West is secretary. H. A. Robinson is chairman of the reception committee which will meet all trains and see that all visitors are well located in good hotels, boarding houses, and nice homes. The meeting place will be announced later, but headquarters of the Association will be the Hotel Latham.

In Henderson.

Only 4 of the 12 members of the present Council in Henderson were re-elected, out of 9 who sought re-election. The city went Democratic by 334 and the county as a whole by 1,346.

NEW MEXICO

Pulls in With a Sweeping Democratic Victory.

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 10.—William C. McDonald, Governor, and the entire Democratic State ticket is elected by a clean majority of at least 2,000 votes. It may be closer to 3,000 by the time all the returns are in.

It is almost certain that the Democrats and progressive Republicans will dominate the Legislature. The Democratic Congressional candidates have been running abreast the State ticket, and H. B. Ferguson and Paz Valverde will represent the new State of Mexico in the National House of Representatives. It is a sweeping victory for the people and a repudiation of the political oligarchy which has ruled New Mexico for a generation.

Guthrie Election.

DID MOSES MAKE MISTAKE?

First Chapter of Genesis Conforms in Many Instances With Late Discoveries in Science.

We have often heard "the mistakes of Moses" in the first chapter of Genesis commented upon, but what especially strikes us in that chapter is not its contraventions of science, but its harmonies with late discoveries. How did the writer, many centuries before the story of the rocks had been deciphered, know that there was a beginning and then a pause before life appeared on the earth? Who taught the writer that the earth was "without form and void" before it was divided into continents? How came it that the long delayed, slow emergence of land should be set forth as it is? Was it mere guesswork that prompted the writer to say grasses were created before animals, and not for animals already existent? Is it a happy accident that life in the water appears before life upon the land? And ages before the scientist dreamed of paleontology we find man last in the series just as he appears today by his remains in the drift instead of in the stratified rocks? Further investigation may explain discrepancies, but what except inspiration can account for these coincidences?—The Advance.

WILL RUN IN THE FAMILY

Boy Gently Breaks to Father the News of His Expulsion From School.

"That boy will be the death of me some day!" declared the head of the family. "I'm sure I don't know where he gets all his impudence and self-assurance—surely not from me. He returned home from school the other day to spend the holidays, as I supposed, and, entering my office, he threw his hat on the floor, selected an easy-chair, put his feet on my desk, lit a cigarette, inhaled a few puffs, and then, turning languidly to me, he drawled:

"I say, dad, do you remember the time when you were expelled from school?"

"I did. There was no use denying it, for one day in a burst of confidence I had told him some of my escapades as a boy, and lived to regret that I had been so indiscreet.

"Well," said he, "history has repeated itself."

"What do you mean, you rascal?" I roared.

"Oh," said he, easily, "I've been expelled, too. Astonishing, isn't it, dad, how such things will run in a family?"

Banks Guarded by Soldiers.

Like the Bank of England, the Bank of France is now guarded every night by soldiers, who do sentry duty outside the building, a watch being likewise kept inside its precincts. But within quite recent time the officials at the French bank resorted to a very novel method of protecting their bulwark. This consisted in engaging masons to wall up the doors of the vaults in the cellar with hydraulic mortar as soon as the money was deposited each day in these receptacles. The water was then turned on and kept running until the whole cellar was flooded. A burglar would be obliged to work in a diving suit and break down a cement wall before he could even begin to plunder the vaults. When the bank officials arrived next morning the water was drawn off, the masonry torn down and the vaults opened. Curiously enough, within a few months after this obsolete manner of protecting the bank's cash was done away with, burglars did actually get into the vaults and decamp with about $45,000 in gold coin.—Strand Magazine.

How Tourists Economize.

A comedy of economy is reported from St. Moritz. A stout couple, accompanied by a son and daughter who were also "thick," as the Germans translate stout, entered a crowded hotel at the busy time of lunch and ordered one lunch at table d'hôte. The father sat down and finished two helpings of soup and all the bread near him and left the table, his place being taken for the entrees by his wife, who had been waiting with her children in the hotel corridor until her husband appeared.

The young man then took his mother's place to attack the joint, and he was followed by his sister for the sweets, all doing justice to the menu. In the crowd the tourists did not notice the unusual lunch, but the head waiter did, and when asked for the bill presented one for four lunches. The paterfamilias grumbled a good deal—and paid!

Swiss English.

Swiss English always seems designed to round off the scenery with the touch of humor. For years the best in the writer's collection has been an inscription by a path leading to a waterfall near Melringen, which explained that a toll was necessary for "the foundation and untainting" of that path. Until last month, however, there was nothing quite equal to the Strasburg cathedral notice: "Express interdiction to circulate during divine service. Heedle have to preserve order." But Switzerland has not least tied with Germany now in the collection. In a certain Oberland valley, too unspoiled yet to be given away by name, there is a series of gates which bear a short request in Oberland German to the wayfarer to close the gate and take the path. The gates are made of wood and are placed at intervals of a few feet along the path.

Could Not Write.

Versailles, Ky.,—Mrs. Elisha Green, of this place, says, "I could not write all the different pains I had when I first tried Cardui. I could scarcely walk. Now I am able to run the sewing machine and do my work; and my neighbors tell me the medicine must be good, for I look so much better." Cardui is a specific, pain relieving, tonic remedy, for women. In the past 50 years, it has been found to relieve women's unnecessary pains, and female misery, for which over a million suffering women have successfully used it. Try Cardui for your troubles. It will help you. At the nearest drug store.

YOUNG UNTIL THIRTY-FIVE

From That Time On Unmarried Women Are "Old Maids," Says Boston Y. W. C. A.

When does a woman cease to be young? Woman herself, for reasons that require no elaboration here, declines, as a rule, to fix the period. Masculine authorities, for the most part, are chary of venturing upon such dangerous ground. Hence the question has ever been involved in uncertainty and it would perhaps remain so were it not that a responsible authority—none other than the Young Woman's Christian association, the title of which indicates its competency—comes to the front with a decision which may fairly be accepted as conclusive. It is to the Boston branch of the association that the world is indebted for the solution of the problem. The occasion for solving it arose from the completion of a new home for the young women of the association in the Massachusetts city. In framing rules for this establishment, it was found necessary to specify precisely the limit of young womanhood, beyond which the benefits of the home could not be enjoyed. This has been fixed at 35 years. Up to that age a young woman comes within the meaning of the title as understood by the association and may enjoy the advantages of membership and residence in the home. On reaching her thirty-fifth birthday she must resign her quarters. On that fatal day her young womanhood ceases and the "old maid" label is placed upon her indelibly and irrevocably. Thus the matter is settled beyond further cavil or dispute.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

TO RELIEVE THE HICCUGHS

Sucking Ice or Taking Salt and Vinegar Often Will Cure Simple Cases.

Simple cases of hiccough are often relieved by such measures as sucking ice or taking salt and vinegar. Pulling the tongue forward and holding it for some time is an effective procedure.

Sometimes obstinate hiccough is relieved when the patient is strong by having him hang with the arms extended and grasping some beam or pole, so that his feet do not touch the floor. With all the abdominal muscles tense, have him hold his breath as long as possible.

The spelling "hiccough" is recent, being a combination of the syllables "hic" and the latter term of "cough," which is without either physiological or etymological basis; the pronunciation, with perhaps the rarest exception, is still that of the older form "hiccup," earlier given variously as "hickup," "hickupsnickerup," "hickop," "hickcock," "hickcock" and "hickot," with quasi-diminishing suffixes ack, etc.; but the "hick," a syllable aptly expressive of the spasmodic sound produced by the conditions giving rise to the particular disturbance, is found in all references to the origin of the term which the writer has been able to obtain. The term singultus is rarely used.—New York Medical Journal.

Curing Forgetfulness.

I used to be very forgetful, and could not remember half the time where I had put things around the house, says a writer in Harper's Bazar. Finally I hit on this scheme.

I live in the upper flat of a two-family house, and there are just eight rooms in our flat. I got a big white sheet of paper, and wrote on it the names of the eight rooms, and beside the name of each room I wrote the name of a certain place in that room. I decided that every time I put anything out of my hands for a minute I would put it in the place beside the name of that room on the paper.

The paper I tacked up in a conspicuous place in my own room. By using this system I always knew just where to look for things, and after a little while I got so in the habit of putting things in certain places and of remembering where I put them that I no longer needed the paper.

Lifting Fire Hose by Elevators.

The latest idea for raising water for fire-extinguishing purposes to the uppermost floors of tall buildings is to lift the hose by means of the passenger or freight elevators. A simple attachment is provided for affixing the hose to the floor of the elevator, the pipe being coiled up in the bottom of the shaft so as to be easily raised.

In a recent demonstration at Memphis, Tenn., says Popular Mechanics, it was said that the water arrived at the sixth floor of a building practically as soon as the floor was reached by the elevator, and the fire chief of that city recommended the compulsory adoption of the device by all buildings provided with elevators. The hose is inserted in the attachment about two sections behind the discharge nozzle, these sections being coiled on the elevator floor.

The Broken Heart.

"The party will recover from this check," said Mayor Craig of Covington, apropos of a temporary setback. "They say the party will be broken. I'd reply that it will be about as much broken as young Lansing's heart."

"A chorus girl who had refused young Lansing said to a friend: 'I have broken his heart, I fear.'"

"You have," You certainly have," the friend replied, "You've broken it right in half."

"In half? What do you mean?"

"I mean that he took two girls and broke his heart in two pieces."

HINTS TO THE HANDICAPPED

Writer in Atlantic Monthly Tells Them
How They May Make Best of Life.

Grow up as fast as you can. Cultivate the widest interest you can, and cherish all your friends. Cultivate some artistic talent, for you will find it the most durable of satisfactions, and perhaps one of the surest means of livelihood as well. Achievement is, of course, on the knees of the gods; but you will at least have the thrill of trial, and, after all, not to try is to fail. Taking your disabilities for granted, and assuming constantly that they are being taken for granted, make your social intercourse as broad and as constant as possible. Do not take the world too seriously, nor let too many social conventions oppress you. Keep sweet your sense of humor, and above all do not let any morbid feelings of inferiority creep into your soul. You will find yourself sensitive enough to the sympathy of others, and if you do not find persons who like you and are willing to meet you more than half way, it will be because you have let your disability narrow your vision and shrink up your soul. It will be really your own fault, and not that of your circumstances. In a word, keep looking outward; look out eagerly for those things that interest you, for persons who will interest you and be friends with you, for new interests and for opportunities to express yourself.—Atlantic Monthly.

CANNIBALS WHO CHEW GUM

Traveler Finds the Seris Kindly and Affectionate and Quite Without Deadly Weapons.

Though it seems rather a pity to shatter romantic illusions and myths in a world from which romance (of that kind, anyway) is fading rapidly, yet it must be said that there are only two old, useless rifles in the hands of the tribe, and at the time of our visit only two bows and a couple of quivers full of arrows, not one of which was headed. And now they haven't those, for we bought them for souvenirs.

Among themselves, at any rate, however they may have behaved to strangers in the past, the Seris were as kindly and even affectionate a lot of people as I have ever had the good fortune to encounter. Never did we see a mother or father slap a child. Never was anger displayed or irritation. They were continually sharing with each other the little gifts we made them. Really, you know, when you see a group of alleged cannibals sharing chewing-gum (the first they had ever tasted) from mouth to mouth and enjoying themselves hugely, respect for travelers' tales of blood and thunder goes down a peg or two.—Michael Williams in Outing.

Lessons in Etiquette.

Those who have dined in restaurants or hotels habitually will find that they have fallen into many unpleasant little ways, permissible possibly toward a landlord, but not toward a hostess. They feel that they have the privilege both to criticize openly and to imply criticism either of the food itself or of the way in which it is served. Women who cherish the ambition of making poor, forlorn habitues of hotels happy with "home cooking" have their hopes dashed by this ungracious habit. Let those, too, who have fallen into the habit of dipping a spoon or fork into a glass of water and then wiping it on a napkin before using it beware of those moments when they become deeply absorbed in conversation at the house of a friend or even at the home table. Could any habit be more insulting to a hostess?—Harper's Bazar.

A Stupid Hunter.

Returning from two months spent on a ranch he was telling a story of hunting in the hills with an Englishman.
"All of us were out hunting one day," said he, "and the Englishman shot at everything that moved. If the wind carried a cloud of dust upward, you could depend on 'is ludship to shoot at it. So it happened that he narrowly missed shooting a young woman, who, with her husband, was visiting on the ranch. When our party returned the husband, boiling angry, approached the Englishman and said:
"Look here, you damned stupid ass, you missed shooting my wife by an inch."
"Aw, missed her!" said the Englishman, either astonished or perplexed. "By an inch, by Jove? Well, old man, I'm sorry, very sorry."

Nails in Hard Wood.

It will be found almost impossible to drive thin steel nails into hard wood, for the moment you hit them hard enough to puncture the wood they bend over on themselves.
Many people employ the use of a small gimlet to bore the hole destined to hold the nail, and few people know that if yellow soap is rubbed on the nail it can be driven in the hardest wood with ease.
This trick was learned by a carpenter, who discovered it accidentally.
Now whenever he is working with hard wood he keeps a cake of soap near by and sticks it full of nails, using them as he needs them.
He also has a deep hole cut in the handle of his favorite hammer and keeps it filled with soap in which to stick the nails if the cake of soap is not conveniently near.

"EIGHTS" ARE THEIR HOODOOS

Postal Clerks Say Stamps of That Denomination Cause Them
Much Financial Loss.

When a meek little man stepped up to the stamp window in a branch office and asked for an eight cent stamp he caused as much consternation as if he had demanded "your money or your life."

All the clerks came to the window to take a look at him. They muttered to one another and made strange and fantastic signs, crossed their fingers, knocked on wood and did various other things that are supposed to drive away evil spirits.

"We're just out of eight cent stamps," a clerk finally stammered. "Got lots of two and ones."

"Well, gimme a five and a three," said the meek little man, upon receiving which he paid for them and departed.

"What's the matter with the eights?" queried an inquisitive spectator.

The stamp clerk was still too nervous to answer, but one of the others said, with a smile:

"Eights are hoodoos. None of the small offices handle them if they can help it. It's this way: They are just a wee shade different in color from the ones and it is no infrequent thing for a stamp clerk in a hurry to hand out a lot of eights when ones are asked and paid for. It always costs him seven cents a stamp when he does it. The clerk here the other day, during the rush hour, when the offices are closing, was called upon for a dollar's worth of ones. He handed out a hundred eights instead. Cost him seven dollars. Then he got rid of all the rest of the eights and now he won't have anything to do with eights. Even says 'eaten' instead of 'ate.'"

ODD WAYS OF THE COMMONS

Illustrated by the Imminent Peril of Mr. Pearce, Who Read Newspaper During Session.

A member of the British parliament remarks in London Opinion that the rules of the house of commons are past all understanding, and then proceeds to cite the case of Mr. Pearce, M. P., and the imminent danger in which he one day appeared to be. This was when the sergeant-at-arms, with his terrible sword in hand, rose from his chair and rushed with cyclonic speed in the direction of the mild, meek and altogether unconscious offense member. It was quickly made clear what was the cause of this hasty saber charge by the sergeant. Mr. Pearce had actually been reading a newspaper, and there is no more heinous offense known to parliament. The members when in the chamber are not permitted to read newspapers for any purpose not immediately connected with the debate actually in progress, though one may succeed in doing it surreptitiously by folding the newspaper small and concealing it behind the order paper of the day, much like a boy may nibble at an apple in school, concealing the pippin behind his spelling book. Yet more gross breaches of parliamentary etiquette and decorum may be seen, members even wearing their hats when a fellow member is addressing the house, and even the dearest friends of an orator may go to sleep while he is delivering his choicest periods.

Japanese Fruit Trees.

Among the many ways of their own that the Japanese have for doing is their system of pruning and training fruit trees. The system is called "tana," and consists in training the branches overhead on trellis work made of bamboo or wire supported on wooden posts about five and a half feet high.

This offers advantages in gathering the fruit, and not only serves to protect the trees against wind and storms, but is said to increase production. Only very light pruning is done, and that usually in the winter-time. This system is generally adopted for pears and vines, less often for apples and plums.—Youth's Companion.

Life of the Grapevine.

There are some who contend that the life of the grapevine is longer than that of the oak. It is rare that a wild grapevine is found that has died of old age. Pliny mentions a vine 600 years old. There is a vine at Hampton Court, England, planted in 1763, while here in America there is a wild grapevine on the shores of Mobile Bay, within a mile of Daphne, Ala. commonly known as the "General Jackson" vine, more than 6 feet in circumference at its base. There is a grapevine in Carpinteria, Cal., under which more than eight hundred persons may stand. Its trunk is eight feet in diameter at the base and it has borne as high as ten tons of fruit. It is said that this vine was planted in 1842.

Good Mental Tonic.

As appearance means so much to the average woman, mentally as well as socially, the question often arises, "Is there justifiably an aid or improvement in the way of the mind?" Many of our well-known medical men think that "make-up" is as good a mental tonic as anyone can take and greatly advise its use, especially for the girl who has some slight personal defect—a scar, a poor complexion or bloodless lips, for the knowledge of her defects makes her shy and oftentimes sulky and miserable.

CLEAN-UP

And Keep On Cleaning Until The Whole Town Is Clean.

The cleaning up of the city under the direction of committees of ladies from the Civic Improvement League was begun yesterday and will be continued throughout today. The question of public sanitation is attracting attention all over the country and Hopkinsville as a progressive city is expected to keep abreast of the times.

Statistics show that of 1,300,000 deaths every year six hundred and thirty thousand are due to preventive causes.

Thirty-five thousand are killed by typhoid fever. And remember that typhoid fever is caused always and only by the swallowing of filth in food or in water containing typhoid germs. Typhoid means dirt; it means that the people eat dirt—and dirt in its worst form.

In addition to the thirty-five thousand that die of typhoid in our country every year about three hundred thousand get typhoid and are cured.

Remove filth of all kinds from your premises and you reduce the chances of taking typhoid fever and other diseases of kindred types.

The cleaning now being done is at the expense of the citizens. Beginning Monday next the city will send an inspector around to see if the work has been done as provided by ordinances. Those wanting vehicles can secure them at the cheap rate arranged for by the ladies by telephoning to Wooldridge & Co.

HEALTH OFFICER

Warns All Persons to Clean-up Their Premises.

Friday and Saturday Nov. 10 and 11 were designated by the Mayor and Civic Improvement League as Clean-up days. Let everybody comply with these orders of the Mayor and clean up not only the front premises, but the alleys also.

The Sanitary Inspector will call next week and those not having complied will be reported.

In Trigg County.

Trigg county gave Holland, Democrat, 150 majority for Representative and McCreary for Governor 189 majority. The Socialists polled 87 votes. W. H. Hancock was elected city judge of Cadiz by 85 votes over M. M. Hanbery. The following councilmen were elected.

Ira D. Humble.

John Vinson.

John E. Edwards.

F. G. Terry.

Henry Malone.

Van Alexander.

In the city election the old Council was re elected for the next two years with one exception, Van Alexander being elected in place of John S. Lawrence says the Record.

The old ticket only had been placed, by petition, on the ballot for re-election, and it was not expected that any fight would be made in the city at all, but Monday it developed that the opposition to the old Council was making a fight to elect just one councilman, Mr. Alexander, and they centered their fight against Lawrence one of the old councilmen, and by making a button hole campaign with the negroes, succeeded in landing their candidate.
